

Key Stage 5 – 40 books you should read before the end of year 13

1. Susan Hill – Various Haunts of Men (first of a series)
2. Emma Donoghue – Room
3. David Nichols – One Day
4. Carlos Ruiz Zafon – The Shadow of the Wind
5. Lionel Shriver – We need to talk about Kevin
6. Kazuo Ishiguro – Remains of the Day
7. Ken Follett – The Pillars of the Earth
8. Barbara Kingsolver - The Poisonwood Bible
9. Mitch Albom – The Five People you Meet in Heaven
10. Cormac McCarthy – The Road
11. Jonathan Safran Foer – Extremely Loud and Incredibly Close
12. Mary Ann Shaffer – The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society
13. Armistead Maupin – Tales of the City
14. Vladimir Nabokov – Lolita
15. Haruki Murakami – Norwegian Wood
16. Alice Seabold – Lovely Bones
17. Neville Shute – A Town Like Alice
18. David Mitchell – Cloud Atlas
19. Hilary Mantel – Wolf Hall/ Bringing up the Bodies
20. George R R Martin – Game of Thrones Series
21. Kathryn Stockett – The Help
22. Victoria Hislop – The Island
23. Arthur Golden – Memoirs of a Geisha
24. Tom R Smith - Child 44 Trilogy
25. Frank Herbert – Dune
26. Madeline Miller – Song of Achilles
27. Lynn Barber – An Education
28. Donna Tartt – The Secret History
29. Kate Morton – The House at Riverton
30. Steven King – 11.22.63
31. Zadie Smith – White Teeth
32. Stieg Larsson – The Millennium Trilogy
33. John Steinbeck – The Grapes of Wrath
34. CJ Sansom – Dissolution
35. Erich Marie Remarque – All Quiet on the Western Front
36. John le Carre – The Night Manager
37. Leo Tolstoy – Anna Karenina
38. Hans Fallada – Alone in Berlin
39. Toni Morrison – Beloved
40. Mary McCarthy – The Group